

A vibrant sunset over the ocean, with a sky filled with orange, yellow, and purple clouds. In the foreground, two surfers in silhouette are walking through the shallow water, carrying their surfboards. The sun is low on the horizon, creating a bright glow across the sky and water. The overall mood is peaceful and scenic.

San Diego® Happiness is calling

When travelers dream of the true Southern California vacation, they dream about San Diego. 70 miles (112 kilometers) of beautiful beaches, swaying palm trees and a year-round nearly perfect climate define the United States' eighth largest city, which is located in the southwest corner of the country, neighboring colorful Mexico.

San Diego is a dynamic, urban metropolis that is home to world-renowned family attractions, sophisticated arts and dining, exciting nightlife, trendy neighborhoods, popular shopping, endless outdoor recreational opportunities and much more. It is where California was first discovered in 1542 and has a rich Hispanic heritage found in beautiful missions, numerous museums and historic areas like Old Town San Diego.

What distinguishes San Diego from other big U.S. destinations is its relaxed, comfortable Southern California lifestyle and vibe. Here, visitors from around the world join together with friendly residents to enjoy the spirit of San Diego that embraces fun, creativity and a carefree attitude. "Happiness is Calling" in San Diego -- it is time to visit one of the most beautiful, exciting and popular cities in America.

Outdoor Recreation

Beaches and Water Sports

San Diego's beautiful beaches range from the white sandy shores of Coronado Beach to Torrey Pines State Park, set against dramatic 300-foot sandstone cliffs. Surfing, swimming, kayaking, snorkeling, diving, paddle boarding, sailing and sport fishing are popular activities and can be enjoyed year-round.

On Land and Above Land Activities

Rolling hills, canyons, lakes, mountains and the vast Anza-Borrego Desert in the north and east of the city offer diverse outdoor recreational experiences on land and above land including mountain biking, hiking, rock climbing, camping, 4-wheeling, fresh water fishing, paragliding and skydiving.

Golf

San Diego has 93 outstanding courses, located in every conceivable setting from the ocean to the mountains to the desert, and the region's near-perfect climate allows golfers to play year-round. The most popular course is the world-famous Torrey Pines Golf Course in La Jolla.

Culinary and Craft Beer

Fine Dining to Street Food

San Diego's 6,700 eateries range from award-winning, fine dining restaurants to casual, surfside taco shops. The region's multi-cultural communities provide diverse cuisines from Afghan and Vietnamese to Lebanese and Ethiopian. Cali-Baja cuisine is a regional specialty, and a local food favorite is the fish taco.

Farmer's Markets

San Diego is home to 6,000 small farms and popular farmer's markets where visitors can sample and buy delicious local fresh produce. Held daily in different neighborhoods like Little Italy on Saturday and Hillcrest on Sunday, the farmer's markets feature food booths, arts and crafts and entertainment.

Craft Beer

San Diego is considered the "Craft Beer Capital of the U.S." and home to over 100 craft breweries which are located around the region. San Diego beers are award-winning, beating traditional brewing countries like England, Germany and Belgium in world beer competitions.

Shopping

Popular Outlet Malls

San Diego is home to three popular outlet malls that feature great discounted savings at many name-brand stores: the Viejas Outlet Center in San Diego's East County, the Carlsbad Premium Outlets in San Diego's North County, and the Shops at Las Americas Premium Outlets near the border of San Diego with Tijuana, Mexico.

Outdoor Shopping Centers

Visitors can shop outdoors year-round at numerous malls located around San Diego including Fashion Valley Shopping Center in central Mission Valley with high-end department stores like Neiman Marcus, Bloomingdales and Nordstrom, and Westfield UTC in La Jolla offering a unique mix of specialty stores, services and restaurants in an open-air setting.

Diverse Region

San Diego's East and North Counties

A scenic rugged landscape unfolds as you travel from San Diego's coast to rural East County. Here, you can visit quaint countryside communities like the historic mining town of Julian, the 600,000-acre Anza-Borrego Desert, the majestic Cuyamaca Mountains, Native American casinos and more.

San Diego's North County coastline offers some of the most beautiful scenery and beaches in the nation. Visitors can drive along Historic Highway 101 from luxurious La Jolla to laid-back Oceanside and enjoy European-style spas, fun local shopping and eateries, and unique attractions and activities.

Mexico

San Diego features the novelty of a two-nation vacation, with Tijuana, Mexico conveniently located 15 miles/24 kilometers from downtown. Tijuana bustles with activity day and night and offers duty-free shopping, authentic Mexican cuisine, rich arts and culture, and glittering nightlife. Located further south, the Guadalupe Valley is home to Mexico's beautiful wine country.
